Your Carrier to Where the Day Begins!

Follow us on:

Alaska freight moves using a standard domestic bill of lading. No measurements for cube or any additional paperwork is necessary. Just show your Alaska customer as the consignee; Royal Global Express Inc. takes care of the rest.

Our service offerings include weekly ocean freight LCL (less than container load) and FCL (full container load) service from the Port of Seattle/Tacoma to Alaska. Central Alaska, including Anchorage and Fairbanks, is served by multiple weekly sailings, year round, from the Port of Tacoma to the Port of Anchorage. This is a 66 hour voyage subject to weather conditions. Connections within and beyond Anchorage are accomplished by truck where roads exist. Connections to Alaska "bush" communities are accomplished by air.

Southeast Alaska, including Juneau and Ketchikan, is served twice weekly, year round, via barge from the Port of Seattle. There is no coastal highway through the Alaska Panhandle so each port is served individually and direct.

- Movement of all freight is treated as a normal interstate shipment
- Service to Anchorage, Juneau, Ketchikan and Sitka with highway connections to Fairbanks, Kenai, Kodiak and Prudhoe Bay

Our service offerings include weekly ocean freight LCL (less than container load) and FCL (full container load) service from the Ports of Los Angeles, Jacksonville, Houston, Chicago, Miami and Jersey City. To determine your transit times to and from Puerto Rico, use the matrix at the bottom of this page.

Puerto Rico is broken down into three zones. Zone 1 is primarily the metropolitan area of San Juan. Zones 2 and 3 make up the remainder of the island. Zone 1 is delivered within 24 hours after being stripped or cleared, depending on the tax status. Zones 2 and 3 are always delivered within 48 hours of the shipment being stripped or cleared, again, depending on tax status. Even the Zones 2 and 3 shipments, if expedited, will be delivered the same day.

A cubic measurement of the freight is necessary to make an advance price quote. When calling for a quote, please have cubic measurement of the freight, in addition to weight, class, and destination zip code.
